Death

Following a diagnosis of ALS in 2014, David A. Geraghty's health continued to deteriorate. David's wife, Tara, fought with specialists who laughed at her when she suggested Lyme as a possible culprit for his illness. Exasperated, Tara sent a vial of his blood to a certified lab in California. His blood tested positive for Lyme Borrelia. David died on Tuesday, December 22, 2015.
